Habit season opened on last Monday and Bristol hunters seemed to have unusually good luck. On account of the dry weather in the late summer, which is advantageous to the life of the young rabbits there are a greater number of the young to be had this fall than for some years.

Sherman & Perce have received the contract for the mill work, which includes 140 window frames, for the new factory being built at Edlington for the annual training of the pupils of the S. Frank Industrial School. The boys will live in the construction of their new building. The carpenter work will be under the supervision of W. S. Daniels, of Bristol.

The Alumni Association of the Bristol High School has secured Miss Vanilda Varman, of New York, for a lecture in the near future. Miss Varman is popularly known as "The Queen of the Platform" and will give to Bristolians a rare treat. She is highly commended by those who have had the pleasure to hear her. Her lectures are pronounced to be a happy union of wit and sentiment, humor and pathos, beauty and eloquence.

At three o'clock on Tuesday morning, Harry Evans thought he heard burglars in his home at the corner of Mulberry and Cedar street. There was a light in the back room where the man was thought to be and he fired a pistol shot under the door into the room to scare the burglar and several shots out the window to notify the neighbors. Upon investigation a window was found raised opening into the back room where the light was, but the burglar had made himself scarce.

The roast-pig supper of the colored Methodists was very fine, says the Bristol correspondent of the Langhorne Standard. The menu consisted of roast pig, fried oysters, potato salad, roast chicken, baked sweet and white potatoes, cold sausage, tomatoes dressed (à la mayonnaise), cranberry and apple sauce, hot rolls, coffee and cake. All this for 25 cents. The white Methodists of Hainesville expect to give a roast pig supper on Saturday next. The same correspondent says that if they succeed in getting up as good a supper as their colored brethren of Bristol they will deserve to be congratulated.

Efforts are being made by some of Bristol's baseball players to organize a strong club for next year. A meeting was held the latter part of last week when the problem of a first class team for Bristol was thoroughly discussed. Some of those interested in the formation of the new club are Bristol's best players and their abilities in this line are well known. They are John Coleman, Vivian Potts, Harry Hocking, Franklin Gillespie, Parry Thacker and Hazard Hall. With these players of reputation and with enough other good men added to make up the required number there is no reason why Bristol should not have as good a club as there is in the state. Now is the time to organize and any help the boys may want should be given them. The location of a diamond will likely be made on Simon's field at the edge of town on the Bath road, where a small grand stand will be erected, and if the games are well attended by the citizens of Bristol it is the intention to erect a fence around the premises.

Married.

On Wednesday, October 27, 1897, at the residence of the bride's father, 2123 North Nineteenth street, Philadelphia, by the Rev. O. A. Kerr, of Bordentown, N. J., George Cone Tyler and Elizabeth Olmes Wehn, both of Philadelphia.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Swallow surprised even himself. He was out for a jack but can now go back to his nest.

Good results sometimes come from where you least expect it. South Dakota last year gave a majority for Bryan and elected a Populist legislature. Tuesday the Populists were put to sleep, the Republicans electing six out of eight Circuit Judges.

The election passed off more quietly in Frankfort, Kentucky, with only three men killed and several wounded. It was an off year in Kentucky.

Mrs. Alice Norton, a guest at the Hotel Bartoldi, had $20,000 worth of diamonds stolen from her apartments. Inasmuch as the Bartoldi was Tammany's headquarters, and that organization seems to have taken everything in sight, an otherwise mysterious somewhat easier of solution.

The Loan Bill was successful in Philadelphia as expected. If the money which will be raised from the sale of the bonds is honestly and judiciously spent the citizens will have no cause for complaint.

De-Mayor Frank A. Magowan, of Trenton, got out of jail in time to announce yesterday, that in the spring, after he has gotten rid of his various and sundry law suits, he will be the reform candidate for mayor. That he was cheered to the echo is no credit to Trenton.

Bryan kept away from New York City during the recent campaign. Result—overwhelming Democratic victory.

Dr. Swallow says his fight has just begun. He caught the voters of Pennsylvania in the right mood this time, but as a future election he is liable to be lost sight of. The doc or has delivered his warning and thus his mission is ended. It would be better to retire while he can do so with good grace.

There is nothing the matter with the old county of Bucks. In the Republican roll call she answered "Here!" in a voice that is unmistakable. Without the loss of a man she is ready for the next affray.

Evangelina Cissio y Cisneros has received an offer of marriage from a wealthy Chicago business man. The young lady with such a long distance name could hardly be blamed if she were to exchange it for something less cumbersome.

Philadelphia never lets politics interfere with business. A Quaker City syndicate has purchased the entire property of the West Brooklyn (N. Y.) Improvement Co., including streets, water plants and lights. Four thousand building lots are within the purchase and a $5,000 house will be erected on each lot.

In Bucks County.

cannot help but be gratifying to good Republicans. The vote for the head of the ticket is as follows:

For State Treasurer—Beacom, R., 7452; Brown, D., 6393; Swallow, Pro., 432; Thompson, Ind.

For Auditor General—McCauley, R., 7321; Ritter, D., 6608; Lathrop, Pro., 130

Beacom's plurality is 850, and McCauley's 915.

The exact figures on the county ticket are not yet known.

Tammany's Victory.

That it is necessary to chronicle the victory of the worst element that ever infected the politics of a municipality is to be regretted. The citizens of Greater New York have indulged Croker and Cokerism. Lawlessness, under the guise of "personal liberty" will be rampant. Gamblers, jobbers, ward poliers and thugs will now have their innings, as the people by their suffrages have willed it. It seems impossible that in a great community like New York, that one man can go to a convention, force the nomination of a candidate who was practically unknown, during the campaign keep him in seclusion and never permit him to utter a word, and then be triumphant at the polls.

The real responsibility of the election of Van Wyck rests with T. C. Platt, who insisted that the Republicans should go into the fight with a divided force, to meet the solid and organized front of the Tammany Democracy. With one Republican candidate in the field, as the result shows, success would have been assured, but now with the strong holds all occupied by the opposition, nothing but a miracle will remove them.

That a party has to put up with such treacherous bossism seems a crime and there should be some way of reaching such culprits. Having wrecked the party they should be driven from it. Their presence is a constant menace. That there must be a head to all political movements no one denies. It can be called "boss," "machine," or what you please, but there must be a leader. We hope Pennsylvania will never be ruled by such "rule or ruin" bosses as have infected New York. In this state jealousies sometimes exist among the leaders, but when the enemy goes on comfortably differences are adjusted and harmony reigns supreme. True leaders will not conduct their army to certain defeat rather than unbend a selfish, stubborn will.

Personal Mention.

Miss Annie B. Landreth is visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

John C. Swartley, Esq., District Attorney elect, was in Bristol last Friday.

Mr. R. Garsed, formerly of Holmesburg, has rented the dwelling of Mrs. Henry G. Booz on Radcliffe street.

Miss Emma Simons, of Philadelphia, was in Bristol several days last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bailey.

Miss Helen Zimmerman, of Camden, N. J., has been visiting Mrs. Thomas B. Harkins on Jefferson Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Williams and family, of Germantown, spent several days in Bristol during the past week the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Petros.

What's the matter with Hanna? He's liable to be all right.

The Fall Elections.

Republicans have every reason to congratulate themselves on the results of Tuesday's elections. The most trying time for the party in control of the nation's affairs is the election following a Presidential campaign. There is usually not much at stake and the party that has been successful in the preceding year, flushed with victory, becomes lax, and rests on its laurels. The opposition, suffering under defeat, redoubles its efforts in the hope of recovering some lost ground. But they can extract but little comfort from the returns as given thus far.

Divided Republican forces in Greater New York presented the means which made a Democratic victory possible. Aside from this one city the Democracy has little cause for rejoicing. Ohio, which is always a cause for anxiety in off years, is safely Republican, Governor Bushnell being re-elected by a plurality of at least 20,000. The Legislature will have a majority of five Republican voters, thus making the re-election of Senator Hanna probable.

Maryland will keep her place in the Republican ranks, and have seven plurality in the Legislature on joint ballot, thus insuring a Republican successor to Senator Gorman.

Great Republican gains are also shown in the returns from Kansas and Nebraska. South Dakota reversed her decision of last year and the free silver forces were overwhelmed.

Republican Governor Shaw is elected in Iowa by 30,000 plurality.

New Jersey is also safely Republican, while Pennsylvania retains her old seat at the head of the class by at least 125,000 to the good.

With the exception of last year Massachusetts elects Gov. Roger Wolcott by the heaviest Republican plurality ever given a successful candidate for that office.

The results signify that the people are satisfied that they cast their ballots in the right way last year, and that this country has started off on a road of prosperity which they do not intend shall be interrupted by Democratic bawling and non-compliance.

The Death of Henry George.

In the death of Henry George the plain people have lost a sincere friend, the world a philosopher, and a loving family a devoted head. He was of military combat and men whose destination and renown have been gained in the political arena have had great tribute paid at the grave, but never before has such grief been manifested at the death of a private citizen. The mourners extended across two continents. His exalted place among the men of the nation was due entirely to a master mind, and his memory will be a blessing to all who follow.

For State Treasurer—Beacom, R., 7452; Brown, D., 6393; Swallow, Pro., 432; Thompson, Ind.

For Auditor General—McCauley, R., 7321; Ritter, D., 6608; Lathrop, Pro., 130

Beacom's plurality is 850, and McCauley's 915.

The exact figures on the county ticket are not yet known.

AS VIEWED BY A BANKER.

Postal Savings Banks Would Benefit the People Very Materially.

P. F. Brown, president of the Galesburg National bank of Galesburg, Ill., is reported by the Chicago Record to have expressed his opinion in favor of postal savings banks as follows:

"Yes, I believe in postal savings banks. There is a need in our country—yes, an absolute necessity—that people should be taught to make a judicious use of their earnings; in other words, taught to save money. This, like all other education, should begin with the young. The postal system would help in this, as it would be in the reach of all and would afford any one, even the small child, an opportunity to make a beginning in saving something. It should be started on a plan that will gather the waste money that now never goes to bank. In this way the penny is cared for until it gets enough added to it to make a dollar, and from this it grows on until it reaches a judicious investment—a homestead and loan association, a lot or a house started, or something to which the owner attaches a value. Then this person begins to become something. Here ends our anarchism and socialism and government ownership, which so many are afraid. The secret of saving is to make a beginning. When this beginning is made then there arrives something better in the individual. The saving must be used, invested, set to work. Out of this grows the business habit, and out of this habit the man who develops and becomes capable of managing it. Now, it seems to me as a means to this end all auxiliaries we can advise that are just and honorable should be used. Doing things is contagious, and if this movement was once universal and became a national characteristic.

"No, it is my opinion banks and bankers as a rule are not opposed to the postal bank system, and it is my opinion the system in

BRISTOL CHURCHES.

St. Mark's Catholic Church.

In the early '40s the Catholic population of Bristol was so small that its spiritual wants were attended to by a clergyman from Trenton, Rev. Father Mackin, who visited Bristol twice a month for that purpose, services being held at the house of Mr. Brady in Adam's Hollow, just beyond the creek which bounds the borough on the northeast.

The Catholics so rapidly increased that in 1845 it became necessary to have a resident pastor in Bristol, and with the approbation of the church authorities it was decided to build a church and pastoral residence. Accordingly a lot was purchased on Radcliffe street near the creek above mentioned, the corner stone was laid in 1868 and the new church was dedicated in the following year. In the interim from the time the old church was burned the Catholics having no place to worship were tendered the use of Washington Hall, where they worshipped until the new church was ready. In 1871 Father Prendergast went from Bristol to Allentown and Rev. Father Lynch took charge of the parish.

There was much work yet to be done in the interior of the church, pews and other fixtures; besides the old residence was in a very dilapidated condition totally unfit for use. So Father Lynch had the old house taken down and in its place built a handsome brick dwelling. These additions and improvements created a considerable debt. Father Lynch died in Bristol on the 28th of April, 1879, and was succeeded by Rev. Father Ward. During his pastorate the church was greatly improved, the side walls were extended to a line even with the tower, finished at the ends with circular wings, which greatly improved the appearance of the church in front; also was built a new sacristy, the interior was painted and frescoed, and a new organ put in position. Unfortunately it was again visited by fire, but very little damage was done to the building, all the decorations, the altar and organ were ruined, all of which had to be replaced. Notwithstanding these losses and difficulties Father Ward with commendable courage and energy not only repaired the damage done by the fire but concluded to build a Parochial School for the children of the parish. For this purpose he purchased a lot about midway on Radcliffe street. The readers of the GAZETTE are familiar with the history of the erection of the school. It is now a splendid success under the care of the Sisters of the Immaculate Heart who impart religious and secular instruction to upwards of 200 children. Father Ward was succeeded by Fathers McElhone and McGinnis. Their stay in the parish was short and uneventful. Father Vandegrift took charge of the parish in the fall of 1889. His pastorate may well be considered the brightest and most successful period in the history of the church. He found the parish almost hopelessly involved in debt and a congregation comparatively poor. The prospect was anything but cheering.

Being endowed with splendid abilities which he entirely devoted to his work, he soon had everything in order, the prospect became brighter and brighter as time went. He beautified the interior of the church, had it newly frescoed, put in a very costly altar rail, and a set of imported Stations of the Cross. He also purchased a lot in a very convenient location for a cemetery at a cost of three thousand dollars in all of which he was ably seconded by his assistant, Rev. Father Meagher. In June, 1896, much to the regret of his parishioners he went to Philadelphia to take charge of St. Edwards, taking with him the respect and esteem of the entire community, and had the satisfaction of surrendering free of all encumbrances, without one dollar of indebtedness, the parish with all its improvements to his successor, Rev. Hugh Garvey, the present able and efficient pastor.

ELECTION DAY IN BRISTOL.

The election in Bristol went the way it was expected to do, only not quite so much so. The vote was light, and the majorities, consequently, comparatively speaking, were not heavy. Nevertheless Bristol shows, by the vote light or heavy, that she can be relied upon as a solid Republican town, and that Republicans here do not stay away from the fold to gambol with strange companions in unfamiliar pastures.

The total vote fell short of that of 1896, with which this year's vote is compared, some 200 ballots.

The nasty weather in the forenoon, the absence of either of the more important of the county offices, and the fact that there was no apprehension felt by Republicans for the complete success of the ticket, would naturally account for the lightness of the vote.

There was no excitement at the polls. In the Third Ward there was some effort to get out votes for the Prohibition candidate for Treasurer, Swallow, and also for Thompson, the independent candidate for the same office, but the result showed that the labor was not great or that it was not productive of nominal results.

Below we give in detail the vote in the borough and the pluralities and majorities for the successful candidates.

FAIR AND NEAR.

—John Moser has sold his 65-acre farm, with buildings in good condition, at Greendale, Montgomery County, for $1800.

—One of the active churchwomen of Gibraltar, Berks County, has made and sold 100 sunbonnets for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society of her church.

—A boy attending the public schools in Auburn, Schuylkill County, is afflicted with a disease of the eye whereby the letters in a word are transposed, and he therefore spells backward.

—The Montgomery County Commissioners have decided to offer a reward of $200 for the apprehension and conviction of Joseph Wheeler, who shot and killed Joseph Carozza near Willow Grove on Saturday night. They also offer a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of Edward White, who is charged with the murder of his wife, Berch, in Upper Pottsgrove township, last September.

—Wicker W. Williams, a young farmer living near Doherty, was run into by an express train at the old Andalusia crossing. Williams was returning from market at Philadelphia with his wagon and double team when he was struck. The horses were both killed and the wagon demolished. The body was brought to the Bristol morgue where it was viewed by the Coroner and identified by the young man's parents.

—J. W. Gross, of Trenton, a brakeman on a local freight between Trenton and Philadelphia, was killed at Ely station last Saturday afternoon. The train was moving along slowly when Gross, in attempting to jump off the car to examine a hot-box, landed against the fence in front of the station between the tracks and was thrown underneath the train and had both his legs cut off. He was brought to Bristol and removed to the Presbyterian Hospital in Philadelphia, where he died on Sunday.

—The peanut crop seems doomed this year. It began by being cut off from a fourth to a half by prolonged dry weather and now it is the rain doing a part of the crop on the ground, dug, but not stacked, and as there hasn't been sunshine enough to dry the peas the result is that both the vines and the nuts are damaged from mildew. And even where the peas had been stacked there is some damage from the rain being carried by the high wind into the interior of the stack.

—Wilmington Star.

—A Bethlehem dispatch, dated November 1 says: Harry Collins, the local inventor of the pneumatic bicycle hub, has been induced by the Sayre Land Improvement Company to locate there and to-day awarded the contract for the erection of a two-story brick factory, 60 by 250 feet. Land valued at $12,500 was presented to Mr. Collins and Sayre capitalists subscribed $50,000 in cash towards the new industry. Reading, Allentown and Hazleton were after the new industry. The new industry will be in operation before the holidays, it is expected.

In several of the Australian colonies both general savings banks and postal savings banks exist, both being under control of the government, says the Chicago Record. This is true of Victoria, New South Wales and Tasmania. Postoffice banks alone exist in Queensland and Western Australia, and general savings banks alone in South Australia. In Canada government savings banks antedate the postal savings bank, but are giving way to the latter as the more convenient and profitable institution. In some countries having the general savings bank as distinguished from the postal savings bank use is made of the post-offices as places of deposit for transmission to the general bank.

As between the general savings banks under government control and the postal savings bank there is no question that the latter is the one for adoption in the United States. The postoffice has in operation machinery that could be utilized for the protection of small savings deposits with comparatively little additional trouble and expense.

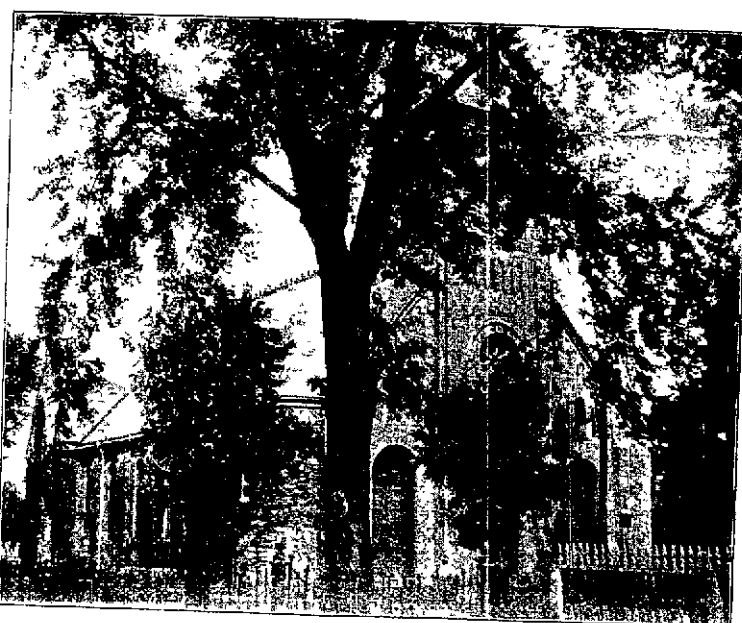

An Entertaining Town.

Contestville, one of Pennsylvania's progressive towns, has given evidence of its right to the title of a bustling place by the appearance of a well printed "Pocket Directory and Business Guide," which is issued by the Board of Trade. This active organization, which dates from 1890, has done an excellent bit of work, as the pocket directory is really an exhaustive little booklet going into the history of the town, its industries, enterprises and giving one a complete picture of what it was and what it is to-day, a borough of which the State may feel proud.

THE SULTAN OF TURKEY A MILD MANNERED MAN.
A diplomat recently relieved from duty and therefore released to a certain extent from the obligation of silence expresses with great frankness his personal opinion of the Sultan of Turkey, which we find with the editor's comments in yesterday's New York Sun.
The Hon. A. W. Terrell of Texas, lately our Minister to Turkey, draws in the Century Magazine a portrait of the Sultan which differs much from the generally accepted idea of that potentate. In this respect Mr. Terrell corroborates the statements so fearlessly and persistently maintained by Mr. F. Hopkinson Smith, in the face of much clamor and even abuse. Mr. Hopkinson Smith has in his tin box of pigments no brighter colors than those which Mr. Terrell uses in portraying Abdul Hamid as an individual and as a ruler. Mr. Terrell describes a modest, refined, courteous, considerate, and kind-hearted gentleman, of philosophic mind and somewhat melancholy temperament, particularly generous in his treatment of Armenians and with broad country for men or religious faiths other than his own. In the matter of political ability, Mr. Terrell regards the Sultan as "the ablest sovereign in Europe."
This estimate of Mr. Terrell's is here recorded not for purposes of discussion, but because from what we know of the former Minister to Turkey we believe it to be as sincere as it is courageous. The very fact that the conventional and world-popular idea of Abdul Hamid represents him as a heartless crime-ridden wretch and assassin, infamous and execrable beyond the power of language to express, may have impelled Mr. Terrell to dwell disproportionately upon such good qualities as he observed in the individual during his official intercourse with the Yildiz Kiosk. The memory of personal kindness may influence his judgment more or less. If for one reason or the other, or for both, he exaggerates Abdul Hamid's excellences unconsciously, that is only in accordance with human nature under the circumstances. But to assume that the former Minister to Turkey is absolutely wrong, is to suppose him either a fool or a habitual sympathizer with unspeakable wickedness and depravity. He is neither. He is a spirited and independent American citizen, with uncommon powers of observation, who has had recently uncommon opportunities to study the subject of his present remarks. All this makes his Century article very interesting.
Origin of the American Indian.
Repays from Victoria, B. C., state that Dr. F. Boaz, who for ten years has been making a study of the British Columbia Indians for the British Association, and also leads the expedition which the American Museum of Natural History sent out last spring, has returned to Victoria. Dr. Farrand, who is also engaged in the work of collecting information about the Indians, also returned. The two scientists have covered an immense territory, first going into the interior of the province and then coming out through to the northern coast. The work done of the interior was a continuation of the work which the British Association has been carrying on since 1877, while that on the coast was prosecuted in the interests of the American Museum of Natural History. The idea is to ascertain the origin of the coast Indians and whether any relationship exists between them and the natives of the Asiatic coast. A study will be made of the Indians from the Columbia River to Behring Strait, and what is known of the traditions and customs of the natives of the two coasts, Dr. Boaz is convinced that they are related and the first Indians on this side of the Pacific came from Siberia.

MISS WATTS OF NEW YORK.
From Her Descended a Marquis and Earl of Great Britain.
People talk of international marriages, as if they were an invention of recent years, but are oblivious of the fact that British poets have shown their good sense by marrying American girls for over a couple of centuries, and there is a large amount of American blood in the British house of lords.
Every one going up and down lower Broadway notices the statue of John Watts in Trinity churchyard. It was erected by his descendant, General Do Peyster, who has a predilection for that sort of thing. Now old John Watts, besides being the progenitor of General Do Peyster, was the progenitor of the present marquis of Ailes and earl of Cassilis. There were earls of Cassilis before Mary, queen of Scots, married the daughter of France, and there were Barons Kennedy before Columbus discovered America. On that wild coast where looks out on the Scottish landscape, where Ailes lifts her head above the foam, the Kennedys have always reigned, and Captain Kennedy of the royal navy married a Miss Schuyler of New York, who is mentioned in the records of the college of heralds as coming from New Jersey. His second wife he married a Miss Watts, the present marquis of Ailes and earl of Cassilis. The man who married Miss Schuyler came to his earldom and his estates on the death of his brother after a contest between the Earl of March and Rutland about the succession, which was decided in favor of the captain's brother.
It was the same sort of a contest which was waged by the Rev. Bryan Fairfax and by Lord Stirling, with the present exception of Lord Stirling's victory. The marriages were successful, and the third Lord Stirling, was not. The fact that William Alexander fought bravely in the cause of the colonies may have had something to do with his lack of success before the house of lords. However the American blood in the Earl of Cassilis advanced him to a marquessate, and General Do Peyster has erected a monument to old John Watts. One of the earl's sons married the daughter of General Alexander Macomb of the United States army.—New York Press.

WATER FOR ONE.
An Authority Tells How Much Is Needed by Persons in Various Occupations.
According to Professor Allen, we should drink from three to four gallons daily. For a man weighing 168 pounds there would be required 56 to 64 ounces daily, or from 1 1/2 to 4 pints. This is a very indefinite answer. The amount of water required depends on the nature of the work, the amount of work done and the kind of food eaten. In hot weather we require more than in cold, because of the greater loss through the skin, though this is in part made up by the fact that the perspiration of the body is more profuse. If the food is stimulating and salty, more water is required than if it is bland. Vegetarians and those who use much fruit require less water than those who eat salt fish and pepper, and often get along on none except what is in their food. I began to ask our instincts tell us how much water to drink far better than any hard or fixed rule. For ages they have been acquiring knowledge of how much to drink and transmitting this knowledge to descendants, and if we follow them we shall need go far out of the way.
It is of more use to us to know that pure water is essential and that impure water is one of the most dangerous drinks than to know how much of it is required daily. If one lives in a region where the water is bad, it should be boiled and put away in bottles well corked in an ice chest, and in addition one should eat all the fruit one can get. If fruit agrees, fruits contain not only pure water, but salts which are needed to carry on healthfully the functions of life.—Journal of Hygiene.
Dews are less abundant on islands than on ships in mid-ocean. Seamen can therefore tell when they are nearing land by reason of the smaller deposits of dew on the vessel.
They Disappeared.
"I was afflicted with scrofula for a number of years and tried different kinds of medicine without relief. Finally I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla to cleanse my blood and in a short time after I began taking it the scrofula sores disappeared and I am now entirely well." JOHN M. BORN, Box 22, West Greene, Pa.

Does Your Piano Need Tuning?
This question has no doubt been asked a score of times at your door by men who profess to be piano tuners. As a rule this class of so-called tuners know very little about tuning and how about the mechanism of a piano, and are capable of doing a piano more harm than good. In view of this fact we have established a tuning club. We have a number of tuning orders to do regularly, and on this account we give you the benefit of first-class work at a moderate price. Does Your Piano Need Tuning?
This question has no doubt been asked a score of times at your door by men who profess to be piano tuners. As a rule this class of so-called tuners know very little about tuning and how about the mechanism of a piano, and are capable of doing a piano more harm than good. In view of this fact we have established a tuning club. We have a number of tuning orders to do regularly, and on this account we give you the benefit of first-class work at a moderate price. We are anxious to keep in touch with as many people as we can, no matter what piano they may have.
